

The petition should be denied. If Europeans want radio communications when they're in the USA, they can do what we do: go to a local store and buy the radios. These FRS radios are not very expensive - you can get one at Wal-Mart for $20 - so it is hardly an inconvenience to the traveler. These radios are not a requirement for traveling in the USA, therefore the petition should be denied.

I also think it is unlikely the Europeans will allow US travelers to use US FRS radios over there should this be adopted.
